THIRD EDITION.

"A WEEK AWAY FROM TIME IS AN INTERESTING SOCIAL MYSTERY. EACH STORY EXCEPT ONE WAS WRITTEN BY DIFFERENT WOMEN PROMINENT IN BOSTON, AND THE OTHER, SO IT IS WHISPED, was imagined by a man." The narrative contains the single story as it were written by a woman, but a private legend makes the secret of the volume's construction explicable; that it is a woman's finely wrought and really noble production. The round of papers, seven in all, are threaded together by still another, feminine social leader, who makes its conversations charming, and here and there she is brilliant. There is a high-bred air about even the mechanical part of the product. Its dainty cover has a woman's illustration which creates it have an unusual sum of reserve talent that the world greedily craves a sight of. A most delightful series of papers, a prelude to which, in musical double quotation, was written by one of Boston's cleverest and sweetest gentewomen," says The New-York Home Journal. Price, $1.25. ROBERTS BROTHERS, Publishers, Boston.
